Atlanta Seasonal Color – Floralis Garden Design

The landscape at the residence is simple, clean-lined, and mainly evergreen. The container plantings are meant to accent the landscape, add seasonal color and bring brightness to shade-filled areas. The front entry bed and urn are filled with Saxifrage and Hellebores.

On the back terrace, a close-up view of a container with plantings of Dianella, Begonia, and Scaevola. These white-garden container plantings are companions to the shade garden containers, planted with white-flowering and variegated foliage plants to add brightness to a shady garden space.

Later in the season, the blooms continue - Dianella, Begonia, and Scaevola are all in-bloom.

JUDGES' COMMENTS:

Simple, elegant, to-scale plantings! Good color palette combinations. It's nice to see the interior arrangements, shows range of work.
